

The National Archives (of England) E179 Database

These pages are from E 179 Database documentation, found (as of 26 April 2009) at:
<http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/e179/details.asp?direct=1>

for E 179/142/279 and E 179/143/410.

I printed the documentation to PDF in a number of pieces, and then combined them in this document. I did not bother to print the tax grant details for any but the 1621 Jan 30 x Feb 17 tax grant, which is the one to which E 179/142/279 pertains, and to which rotulets 2 and 3 of E 179/143/410 are purported to pertain. The various pieces of this combined documentation may be reached directly using the bookmarks.

Notes

Although originally due to begin on 16 January, after two prorogations Parliament eventually opened on 30 January 1621. A letter of 17 February 1621 recorded in [CSP Dom, 1619-23], p.225 shows that by that date a grant of two subsidies had been made in anticipation of war in the defence of the Palatinate, although long discussions in committees meant that the bill did not receive royal assent until 22 March, by a commission dated 21 March ([Stat. Realm], IV, p 1208). The roll of statutes enacted in this parliament is lacking, and the act for the subsidies is consequently not included in the printed statutes, but a copy of the act has recently been located among the State Papers, from which it is evident that the act was written before 26 March 1621 (SP 46/65, fos. 122-140).

Commissioners to levy the first subsidy were to receive their commissions by 26 March 1621, and the assessment was to be completed by 31 March 1621, certified at the Exchequer by 20 April 1621 and paid in one payment on 1 May 1621. A letter from the council to Lord Zouche cites the payment date of the first subsidy as 10 May 1621, however, and the account of the collectors of Hastings rape in Sussex gives 1 June 1621 as the date on which this subsidy was to be paid (E 179/291/10). The rates for this subsidy were 4s. per pound on landed income, levied on all individuals and corporations holding lands valued at 20s. or more per annum. Those with goods worth £3 or more paid a tax of 2s.8d. in the pound (E 179/193/279; E 179/259/1). Aliens were to pay double these rates, and if not liable in either category of wealth, were charged with a poll tax of 8d. per head.

The second subsidy was to be levied in two unequal payments, though the thresholds of liability remained the same as for the first subsidy, in both categories of wealth. For the first payment for the second subsidy, the commissions were to be received by the commissioners by 20 July 1621, and the assessment was to be completed by 31 August 1621 and certified at the Exchequer by 30 September 1621; payment was due on 1 November 1621. The rates levied on land for this payment were 2s.8d. per pound, and on goods, 1s.8d. per pound. Aliens were again to be charged double these rates, and those without any taxable property were liable for an 8d. per head poll tax - 4d. for each payment of the second subsidy. Letters from commissioners for assessment indicate that assessment for this first payment of the second subsidy took place from August to October 1621.

Commissioners for the second payment of the second subsidy were to receive their commissions by 20 January 1622, and the second payment was to be assessed by 28 February 1622, certified by 31 March 1622 and paid on 1 May 1622. The rates levied for this payment were 16d. per pound on land, and 12d. per pound on goods (E 179/193/285; E 179/193/286). These rates are confirmed in letters from the council to Lord Zouche.

A roll containing a form of writ to commissioners to collect the first collection, for English counties up to Sussex, is now at TNA: PRO C 212/22/20; similar rolls for the second and third payments for England and Wales are at C 212/22/22 and C 212/22/21.

In addition to the returns made by the commissioners among the documents grouped under individual counties in E 179, there is a paper book of interim accounts for several counties, for the period Easter term 1621 to Easter term 1624 (E 179/266/25). This book lists persons exempt from the tax, including much of the king's household, and gives dates of payments made by the collectors.

Although no records for this subsidy for Caernarfonshire survive in E 179, a copy of a commission to collect a subsidy, dated 22 March 1621, for Caernarfonshire, probably relating to this subsidy, is in the National Library of Wales, ref. Brogyntyn 3329, and mention is made of the order to collect a subsidy, probably the third collection, in a letter dated 8 February 1622 (Brogyntyn MSS (Clenennau Letters and Papers) 412 (NLW Film 1034)). An assessment for the hundred of Rhuthun for the first collection of this subsidy is also in the National Library of Wales, ref. Wynnstay Deeds Box 68/36. An assessment for the north part of the hundred of Bradford, Shropshire, dated 17 April 1621, presumably for the first collection, is in the National Library of Wales, ref. Plas Yolyn 423. This is clearly the collector's copy, as many entries for individuals are marked with a cross, presumably to denote payment, and some are annotated 'a certificate', presumably to denote a certificate of residence or exemption, for example. An assessment for the third collection for the hundreds of Coleshill, Rhuddlan and Prestatyn, Flintshire, dated 19 February 1622, is also in the National Library of Wales (H. R. Hughes (Kinmel) Collection, 119, with a transcript by J. P. Earwaker in NLW MS 1619E (Kinmel 119).

([Stat. Realm], IV, p 1208; C. Russell, [Parliaments and English Politics 1621-1629] (Oxford, 1979), pp 90-91; [CSP Dom, 1619-23], pp 225, 252, 284-285, 293, 296, 359)

Notes

This Middlesex roll contains a certificate of assessment and individual assessment for Ossulstone hundred for the first of two subsidies granted to James I in 1621.

The certificate is dated and endorsed with the date of return to the Exchequer.

This document is in poor condition having been damaged by water and gall. Several parts of the first five rotulets and the final rotulet are illegible. The present second rotulet of E 179/143/410 should be inserted between the twelfth and thirteenth rotulets of E 179/142/279. The present third rotulet of E 179/143/410 should be inserted as the missing foot of the fifth rotulet of E 179/142/279.

Notes

The piece E 179/143/410 contains membranes, rotulets and folios from a number of different lay subsidy assessments. These different documents were stitched together at the head during a conservation exercise in the 1840s or 1850s. For ease of reference the documents have been divided into various parts.

Part 1 (the first rotulet of the present roll) is a single parchment membrane containing an individual assessment for part of Shoreditch parish, in Ossulstone hundred. This document contains no dates or headings or references to a grant or collection. Only the sums payable are recorded, so the rates of assessment can not be established. The hand is late seventeenth century.

Part 2 (the second and third rotulets of this roll) consists of two parchment membranes containing an individual assessment for part Ossulstone hundred. This document contains no dates or headings or references to a grant or collection. However, the two rotulets have clearly become detached from E 179/142/279, the individual assessment for the first of two subsidies granted to James I in 1621. The present second rotulet of E 179/143/410 should be inserted between the twelfth and thirteenth rotulets of E 179/142/279. Part 3 (the fourth and fifth rotulets of this roll) consists of two parchment membranes containing an individual assessment for part Ossulstone hundred. This document contains no dates or headings or references to a grant or collection. The first membrane contains no legible text. The second contains the names of four parishes, and part of the names and assessments of fifteen individuals, none are complete. The rates of assessment (1s per pound on goods over a threshold of £3 and 1s 4d per pound on lands over a threshold of £1) are appropriate for one or more of the collections of twenty-five subsidies granted between 1559 and 1621. The hand is probably early seventeenth century.

These different documents were stitched together at the head during a conservation exercise in the 1840s or 1850s. For ease of reference the documents have been divided into various parts.

Part 5 (the seventh rotulet of this roll) consists of one parchment membrane containing an individual assessment for part of Hackney, in Ossulstone hundred. This document contains no dates or headings or references to a grant or collection. The rates of assessment (5s 4d per pound on goods over a threshold of £3 and 8s per pound on lands over a threshold of £1) are appropriate for one or more of the collections of subsidies granted in 1628, 1640, 1641 and 1663. The names of the taxpayers are very similar, but not identical, to those in the individual assessment for the first collection of the four subsidies granted to Charles II in 1663, E 179/143/332 (the first collection was of the first two subsidies collected in a single instalment). The present piece has been linked to the second collection of the same grant.

Presumably, this document was produced at, or shortly before, the collection to which it relates.

Notes

The piece E 179/143/410 contains membranes, rotulets and folios from a number of different lay subsidy assessments. These different documents were stitched together at the head during a conservation exercise in the 1840s or 1850s. For ease of reference the documents have been divided into various parts.

Part 7 (the twelfth rotulet of this roll) consists of one paper folio containing an individual assessment for part of Ossulstone hundred. This document contains no dates or headings or references to a grant or collection. Only the sums payable are recorded, so the rates of assessment can not be established. The hand is late seventeenth century.
